Azerbaijan Halal Business Forum

"Nurturing Sustainable Halal Ecosystem in the Region"

CONCEPT

Executive Summary

In a world marked by cultural diversity and global mobility, the halal industry has evolved into a dynamic global market that has become increasingly attractive both for investors and traders and has expanded into different sectors. Azerbaijan, a nation celebrated for its rich cultural heritage and centuries-long history of Islamic civilization, possesses a considerable untapped potential to further the development of the halal industry in the region.

The initiative to launch the "Azerbaijan Halal Business" (AZHAB) Forum is grounded in Azerbaijan's proven regional role as the main locomotive driving its economic growth. Over the last 30 years, Azerbaijan has pioneered landmark regional infrastructure projects which have significantly unleashed the region's economic and trade potential. The country has proven itself as a reliable contributor to development not just within the South Caucasus but on a global scale.

The Azerbaijan Halal Business Forum concept aims to foster collaboration, share knowledge, showcase products, and promote ethical and sustainable practices in the Halal industry while also encouraging business growth and international cooperation in the region.

By bringing together diverse stakeholders, including government representatives, industry experts, entrepreneurs, and scholars, AZHAB Forum seeks to chart a path toward a more vibrant, inclusive, and prosperous halal business landscape in the broader region. This synergy between Halal business practices and Azerbaijan's rich historical and cultural heritage positions the country as a potential hub for the regional Halal industry, where innovation, collaboration, and growth converge to elevate the Halal journey.

SESSIONS

Session 1: Sustainability in Halal Industry: Is green a new halal?

This session offers an opportunity to explore a completely new approach to green and climate change discourse. The green is presented as a "right" of nature to be protected and taken care of. This allows for the "Green Concept" to be incorporated in the mainstream Islamic notion of halal. Halal is traditionally perceived as something related to the recognition of the rights of the Creator or/and other human beings. Although Islamic teachings embeddedly cover the rights of all creatures, the right of nature (environment) has not been explicitly explored and emphasized.

The session will explore how Muslim communities can combine green practices with the halal industry, focusing on sustainable growth and competitive advantages. The "halal-green" concept in Islamic teachings will be highlighted, which combines physical and spiritual values, focusing on both tangible and intangible elements. The halal-green concept emphasizes relationships among humans with nature, creating a holistic behavioural and management model.

This session aims to show how Muslim countries can use their commitment to halal industry to become a model in incorporating sustainability in both their individual and business practices. By aligning green practices with halal standards, Muslims and communities can support environmental goals, promote sustainable development, and improve their global market position.

Session 2: The Role of SMEs In Shaping the Global Halal Industry

Starting with insightful stories from successful SME owners in the region's halal market, this session explores the impactful strategies contributing to their success. Panel discussions address challenges specific to SMEs, offering practical growth insights from the region's growing SME landscape. The session emphasizes collaborative approaches to empower SMEs within the halal sector, drawing inspiration from the region's supportive environment that encourages entrepreneurship and facilitates market access for small businesses.

Session 3: The Potential of Halal Tourism in the Region

Azerbaijan takes the spotlight initially, showcasing its efforts to promote Muslim-friendly tourism through cultural richness and hospitality. Keynote speakers share success stories from the broader region, complementing these insights with best practices from global examples. Discussions focus on strategies to enhance tourism experiences, leveraging initiatives to include halal amenities and prayer facilities. Participants actively engage in brainstorming initiatives to boost Muslim-friendly tourism in their respective regions, drawing inspiration from global best practices.

Session 4: Halal Standardization: Issues and Challenges

Azerbaijan's commitment to upholding halal integrity is highlighted in the session's opening presentations, spotlighting the country's regulatory frameworks and technological advancements. Panel discussions delve into the complexities of halal certification, drawing from the region's efforts to align with international standards. Case studies highlight successful collaborations within the global best practices, providing tangible examples of ensuring halal authenticity. Participants actively propose collaborative strategies, inspired by the best practices in addressing standardization challenges.

Session 5: Challenges in Developing the Halal Ecosystem in the CIS Region

Presentations emphasize the current status within the CIS region, outlining specific challenges in halal industry development. The session draws insights from experts across CIS countries, leveraging active participation in regional dialogues to discuss regulatory hurdles and market dynamics. Participants collaborate to propose solutions, inspired by success cases to foster cross-border collaborations and harmonize standards within the CIS halal ecosystem.

Session 6: Islamic Finance and Investment: Opportunities for Ethical Banking and Finance in the Region

The focus is on the region's pioneering initiatives in ethical banking principles and successful investment models. Panel discussions will shed light on region's evolving initiatives in Islamic financial instruments, showcasing specific successes and regional projects as recent examples. Through interactive sessions, participants will be encouraged to develop innovative strategies, drawing inspiration from global best practices in promoting ethical banking and investments. These endeavors aim to set pioneering standards across the region, spearheading new approaches in the field.
